

Who's Who @ Transy v1.0

Casey Clark & Brian Naylor

Last year, Casey and I went off the deep end and made really stupid signs for everyone's door. This year, Casey wanted to do it again, and we were going to, but then we hit upon a better idea.

Who's who @ Transy is a spiffy little meta-sign orgy for windows. (Looks really nice in 95) I guess the best way to describe it is as an interactive slide show. ? You be the judge. There're a few not-so-obvious features, so poke around a little...

Who's who looks best in 800x600 and > 256 colors. So, you'll need a video card with at least 1 Mb of video RAM. (With 256 colors, windows has to keep re-drawing the background to fit who's who's palette, and things both look weird and run painfully slow.)

You'll also need vbrun300.dll, which we'd've included if we hadn't filled the whole disk with who's who.

For those of you who are totally computer illiterate, this means "Go to Casey, Jason, Sam, Brandon, or Brian and ask to see who's who."

To install, copy a:\who.exe to somewhere on your hard drive and then go to windows' File menu (or 95's Start menu) and choose Run. Type in the path and name of the copied file and hit OK.

Have fun,

Brian & Casey
